

HOI AN COUNTRYSIDE & ISLANDS EXPLORER

Escape from the tourist crowds to Cam Kim island, driving along the riverside and into the beautiful countryside. Visiting an ancestral house, for a glimpse into Hoi An's cultural traditions, and at a boat building yard to see skilled craftsmen at work. Continue along the winding roads of the island, zig-zagging through scenes of rice paddies and farmland.

Pop into cottage industry workshops to see the art of mat weaving, learn to make delicious rice crackers (banh dap) and meet with local families to gain deeper insight into rural lifestyles and traditions. Ride onwards to a local cafe and fuel up with a cup of Vietnamese drip coffee. Then continue along a scenic tree-lined road to reach the coast, at the mouth of the Thu Bon River.

RURAL VILLAGES EXPERIENCE

Set off on the back of our Vespas to discover the villages and countryside around Hoi An! Zoom out of town, following the banks of the Thu Bon River to a bustling local fish market. After a short walk through the market stalls, continue by Vespa into the lush countryside, filled with rice paddies and sleepy hamlets. Pop into a family's workshop to see how they make local rice. Then continue across the Thu Bon River and ride through more quiet villages, the rice paddies, passing duck farms and other scenes of rural life. Pull over to see a family using traditional weaving to make floor mats and then on to another small workshop where potent rice wine is brewed!

HUE TOUR CITADEL, TU DUC TOMB PERFUME RIVER & PAGODA

Hue became the name of Vietnam's most know ancient capital because of the local mispronunciation of the word Hoa in Thuan Hoa.

Since the 16th century, Thuan Hoa, due to its strategic location, has been a very prosperous area. The Nguyen Lord chose this area to be their headquarters. Nguyen Anh made it Vietnam's capital city in 1802 after he defeated the Tay Son and ascended to the throne with the name Gia Long. King Gia Long (1762 - 1819) was credited for building and fortifying Hue from the very beginning. Since then, successive king of the Nguyen Dynasty has added to the foundation set by his predecessors.
