MY SON HOLY LAND

Champa culture had great influences on Vietnam's cultural values of significance. The once capital of Champa Kingdom from 4th to 15th century was "Thanh Dia My Son", called "My Son Sanctuary" or "Valley of Kings" by French historians.

My Son became centre for spirituality and worship during the reign of the Champa Kingdom. Exemplifying the height of Cham architectural achievement. The builders of My Son were the nobility of the Champa Kingdom who derived their cultural and spiritual influences almost exclusively from India.

HUE TOUR
CITADEL, TU DUC TOMB
PERFUME RIVER & PAGODA

Hue became the name of Vietnam's most know ancient capital because of the local mispronunciation of the world Hoa in Thuan Hoa.

Since the 16th century, Thuan Hoa, due to its strategic location, has been a very prosperous area. The Nguyen Lord chose this area to be their headquarters. Nguyen Anh made it Vietnam's capital city in 1802 after he defeated the Tay Son and ascended to the throne with the name Gia Long. King Gia Long (1762 - 1819) was credited for building and fortifying Hue from the very beginning. Since then, successive king of the Nguyen Dynasty has added to the foundation set by his predecessors.

RURAL VILLAGES EXPERIENCE

Set off on the back of our Vespas to discover the villages and countryside around Hoi An! Zoom out of town, following the banks of the Thu Bon River to a bustling local fish market. After a short walk through the market stalls, continue by Vespa into the lush countryside, filled with rice paddies and sleepy hamlets.

Pop into a family's workshop to see how they make local rice. Then continue across the Thu Bon River and ride through more quiet villages, the rice paddies, passing duck farms and other scenes of rural life. Pull over to see a family using traditional weaving to make floor mats and then on to another small workshop where potent rice wine is brewed!
